TOSSUPS

1. In late July 2017, Newsweek published an article stating that this event "Could Mean Disaster for Donald Trump." In areas central to this event, local news networks reported that this event would not cause harm to unborn babies, would not spoil crops, and was not a bad omen. Prior to this event, black squirrel statues in Marysville, Kansas were outfitted with decorative (*) ocular protection. Tucker Carlson stated that "perhaps the most impressive thing any president has ever done" was Donald Trump looking directly at this event without protective eyewear. For 10 points, name this August 2017 event in which the moon passed in front of the sun, which was best seen along the path of totality from Oregon to South Carolina.
ANSWER: total solar eclipse of 2017 [or Great American Eclipse, prompt on eclipse; do not accept or prompt on lunar eclipse]

2. This person was eliminated early from the seventeenth season of Dancing with the Stars along with his partner Tyne Stecklein after he sustained a quadriceps injury. This man is the namesake of a 2017 series whose theme song was produced by Tyler, the Creator and which discusses such topics as the sexual spectrum, vaccinations, and (*) climate change. In 2014, this man debated what a viable model of origins would look like with Ken Ham at the Creation Museum, leading to the publication of his book, Undeniable: Evolution and the Science of Creation. This man's most famous show begins with a segment in which his name is heard repeatedly. For 10 points, name this "science guy" who says that science rules and that inertia is a property of matter.
ANSWER: Bill Nye

3. In the acclaimed Care Bears cinematic universe, the fan favorite "Cheer Bear" has a symbol of this emblazoned on his tummy. When one-time MMA fighter Paul "Bear" Vasquez recorded a video of two of these outside his yard near (*) Yosemite National Park, his reactions quickly became a viral video on YouTube, leading to a parody where he was "songified" by the Gregory Brothers. Hits like "Woman," "Learn to Let Go," and "Praying" are included in the newest album by Kesha known by this name.While traditionally multi-colored, monochromatic versions of this things can be created at sunrise or sunset. For 10 points, name this colorful atmospheric phenomenon used to symbolize gay pride.
ANSWER: rainbow

4. Born Eunice Waymon, this artist changed her name when she was 21 to shield herself from family rebuke for playing the "devil's music." Known for her temper, in 1985 this artist fired a gun at a music executive who she believed stole her royalties. This artist's first hit, a rendition of George Gershwin's (*) "I Loves You, Porgy," was closely followed by her debut album Little Girl Blue. This artist wrote her most controversial single in response to the bombing of the 16th Street Baptist Church in 1963, "Mississippi Goddam." For 10 points, name this R&B artist and Civil Rights activist who sang such songs like "I Put a Spell On You" and "Feeling Good."
ANSWER: Nina Simone

5. In one episode of this series, a Carol Channing impersonator gets their head stuck to a desk and breaks that desk's lights. When asked what comments would always start a fight, that character on this show says, "You guys wanna fight?" Another character from this show states, "This just in. Beverly Hills 91210 [nine-one-two-one-oh], Cleveland Brown 3;" that statement was from a game called (*) Newsflash. Actors on this show include Brad Sherwood and another who is frequently made fun of for his receding hairline, Colin Mochrie. For 10 points, identify this show hosted by Cleveland native Drew Carey in which improv comedians perform games such as Hoedown and Scenes from a Hat.
ANSWER: Whose Line Is It Anyway?

6. The creators of this game are known for their antics on Black Friday, including making $71,145 in revenue selling nothing to willing customers and digging a hole in ground funded through donations from live-stream viewers. The official rules of this game state that the player who is chosen to assume a specific role initially will be the one who has most recently (*) defecated. It was recently confirmed that this game would be releasing Disney-themed cards soon, adding to the already sexually explicit cards referencing politically incorrect topics and phrases such as Oedipus complexes and "chunks of dead prostitute." For 10 points, name this Apples-to-Apples-esque card game whose manufacturers brand it as a "party game for horrible people."
ANSWER: Cards Against Humanity

7. This athlete was the first non-wrestling personality to enter the WWE Hall of Fame, in honor of three straight WrestleMania appearances where he was assaulted by Kane. He is also the subject of the Dowd Report and is the author of My Prison Without Bars. This man reportedly got his nickname when Whitey Ford claimed that he performed the (*) namesake action to catch uncatchable Mickey Mantle home runs. For 10 points, name this former Cincinnati Reds player, nicknamed Charlie Hustle, who is the all-time MLB career leader in hits, and who was banned from baseball for gambling.
ANSWER: Pete Rose [accept Charlie Hustle before mention]

8. The first of these movies from a certain studio and of a certain type was released in 1994 and is partially based on a collection of short stories featuring Bagheera, King Louie, and others. Another of these movies sees Angelina Jolie get her pair of wings hacked off by a king; for that movie, Lana Del Rey covered the song "Once Upon a Dream" to harken back to that movie's counterpart. In the most recent of these movies, (*) Emma Watson is taken prisoner in a castle; that movie departs from its counterpart by including an enchanted book, as well as its studio's first openly gay character, who has a crush on Gaston. For 10 points, identify these movies including the 2015 Cinderella and the 2017 Beauty and the Beast, which are based on earlier classics from the same film studio but are not entirely animated.
ANSWER: Disney live-action remakes [or Disney movies based on earlier animated classics but with real people; be lenient and prompt on partial answers]

9. The default appearance of this character was modeled after Mark Vanderloo. In one appearance by this character, facial scars result from an incomplete Lazarus Project. In this character's final appearance, the Catalyst gives this character the choices of (*) "Destroy," "Control", "Synthesis," or "Refusal" that affect life throughout the universe. The effects of those choices vary based on factors like this character's Effective Military Strength and Morality. This character was named after the first astronaut to reach the rank of rear admiral, the only one of the Mercury Seven to walk on the moon, and the first American into space. For 10 points, name the primary player character of the Mass Effect franchise, as voiced by Mark Meer and Jennifer Hale.
ANSWER: Commander Shepard

10. The first time this man tried to dunk, he climbed up on a chair. For basketball in the 1980s, this man was voted the "player of the decade" in the now-defunct Southwest Conference. He was also the last #1 pick of the pre-lottery draft, ahead of Sam Bowie and (*) Michael Jordan. This man is the NBA's all-time leader in blocks, and his trademark move was the "dream shake." For 10 points, name this Nigerian-born center who played his college ball at the University of Houston and later starred for the Houston Rockets, nicknamed "The Dream."
ANSWER: Hakeem Olajuwon

11. Think & Go is a company that provides solutions based on this technology for grocery stores such as allergy alerts and couponing. At the 2012 Black Hat conference, Charlie Miller demonstrated several hacks based on this technology. The first phone to use this technology was the (*) Nokia 6131, and the Nokia Shakespeare Shuffle was a game requiring this non-Bluetooth technology where one must reassemble Shakespeare quotes. Google Wallet is a payment system based on this technology. For 10 points, name this RFID-based technology that is used for close proximity communication between smartphones and that shares its initials with the National counterpart to the American Football Conference.
Answer: Near-Field Communication

12. In season 6 of Archer, the episode titled "Nellis" is set in this location. This location includes Homey Airport near Groom Lake, where Lockheed established "the Ranch" for engineers working on the U-2 within Nellis Air Force Range. In the Rick and Morty episode "Get Schwifty," the protagonists travel to a (*) sonic stage in this location. The existence of this facility was admitted in 2013 by the CIA. In fact, this area derives its name from a CIA document from the Vietnam War. A 1996 documentary gave this region the nickname Dreamland. For 10 points, name this Nevada facility where the U.S. Air Force probably tests experimental aircraft and probably does not hold the alien remains from Roswell, New Mexico.
ANSWER: Area 51

13. The most recent iteration of this event is currently taking place in a house owned by Luke Turner. It was also held in Albuquerque, during which its founder shouted "Thomas Jefferson" several times into a camera. It was also held in Liverpool, but was cancelled for security concerns. It first debuted outside the Museum of the Moving Image in New York City. This event's original purpose was for the general public to say the titular phrase on a (*) livestream which was supposed to last four years. A flag in an undisclosed location was stolen less than 48 hours after it was erected as part of this event. Since its inception in early 2017, trolls have plagued, for 10 points, what anti-Trump performance art project organized by Shia Labeouf?
ANSWER: He Will Not Divide Us [prompt on clear-knowledge equivalents]

14. The 2016 rebranding of this channel coincided with a change in target audience to "becomers," more commonly known as millennials. The newest original series on this channel is about three friends working at a magazine, inspired by the life of former Cosmopolitan editor-in-chief Joanna Coles, and is the The Bold Type. The star of the former flagship show on this channel played an identical twin of her character in the final season. That show on this channel is about the titular five characters in (*) Rosewood who deal with a villain known as "A." For 10 points, name this TV channel that aired Pretty Little Liars and often has weekend marathons of Harry Potter movies, formerly known as ABC Family.
ANSWER: Freeform [accept ABC Family until mentioned]

15. The real name of this person is Rudy Pantoja. Ethan Klein from h3h3productions launched a YouCaring page with a video saying this man "needs our help" after it was revealed this man was diagnosed with cancer. Klein also donated $100 to the YouCaring page of the opposing member in the conflict involving this man, using it as a "moral test." That opposing member was (*) Zarna Joshi, who responded to the conflict against this man in a video discussing patriarchal society and internalized oppression. That conflict was recorded in a YouTube video by Joshi, in which she claims she was sexually assaulted in a Seattle courthouse after asking for this man's name. For 10 points, name this gag name used by Pantoja, a joke referring to the size of a certain body part.
ANSWER: Hugh Mungus

16. One song in this movie includes the lines, "I'm just building the economy," and "I'm just following my destiny," in response to the song's title question, "How Bad Can I Be?" This film's secondary story includes the characters Ted, Granny Norma, and O'Hare. The antagonist of this film is the owner of a company which sells clean (*) air, called O'Hare Air. This movie notably reveals the face of a major character whose face was hidden previous adaptations of its 1971 book. This movie's titular character is voiced by Danny DeVito and attempts to protect the environment by "speak[ing] for the trees." The Once-ler, Truffula Trees, and the titular orange creature appear in, for 10 points, what 2012 animated film, a 3-D adaptation of a Dr. Seuss book?
ANSWER: The Lorax

17. A scene at the end of this movie shows the protagonist typing out code on a keypad that subliminally tells the audience an action he will perform in the very near future. This movie was based on comic book series of the same name created by Dave Gibbons and Mark Millar. This movie was promoted in a video by Freddie Wong in which he uses a high tech (*) umbrella to fend off many suited men who are trying to kill him. Scenes in this movie include one in which the protagonist fails a test after not shooting a dog and another scene in which Pomp and Circumstance plays as hundreds of socialites' heads explode in an secret luxurious hideaway. For 10 points, name this 2015 movie in which Eggsy trains to become a one of the London-based titular bodyguards.
ANSWER: The Kingsman: The Secret Service [prompt on The Kingsman]

18. When giving a speech, this man once proclaimed, "To those of you who are wearing ties, I think my dad would appreciate it if you took them off". This electrical engineer formed two major companies in his lifetime, and is particularly well known for products like the Voyager, Little Phatty, and the (*) Model D. This man started his first company when he was 19, making kits for electronic theremins. One of this man's crowning achievements is the design of the Voltage Controlled Ladder Filter, which was inducted into the National Inventors Hall of Fame in 2013. When asked about his creations, he said "I'm an engineer. I see myself as a toolmaker and the musicians are my customers. They use my tools." For 10 points, name this pioneer of the electronic synthesizer.
ANSWER: Robert Moog ["mow-g"]

19. The real name of the creator of this action is Russell Horning, who claims he always carries "a water bottle, a charger, a couple fidget spinners, and earbuds" to assist him in doing this action. Although the creator of this action initially demonstrated it on his Instagram, "i_got_barzz," it became even more popular after he cameoed in a live performance of (*) "Swish Swish" by Katy Perry on SNL in May 2017. This action involves swinging the arms side to side and thrusting the pelvis in the opposite direction of the arms and is usually performed vigorously with an expressionless face. For 10 points, name this dance that is named for its very slight resemblance to a questionably effective dental hygienic action.
ANSWER: flossing [prompt on backpack kid dance and clear-knowledge equivalents before "resemblance"]

20. This athlete had a routine before every point in which he touched his shoulders, nose, and ears in a specific order, which he had to speed up after time violations became more strictly enforced. Other habits of this man include drinking water, then electrolyte solution, then water, then placing the bottles with the labels facing out during changeovers. Carlos Moya became this man's main coach after his uncle (*) Toni stepped down to focus on this man's academy in his hometown of Manacor. At 19, this man won the first French Open he played, and has won it nine more times since. For 10 points, name this tennis player, the 2017 US Open champion, winner of 16 Grand Slam titles and known as the "King of Clay."
ANSWER: Rafael Nadal

[TIE-BREAKER]: A city in Oklahoma named for this city is widely viewed as the birthplace of Jim Thorpe. A movie about a historic event set in this city that starred Timothy Bottoms is entitled Operation Daybreak. The Non-Official Cover list is stolen from the American embassy in this city at the beginning of the first (*) Mission: Impossible movie. Landmarks in this non-Rome city of seven hills include the Charles Bridge and Hradčany [h-rad-CHON-ee] castle. This city is also the historical capital of Bohemia. For 10 points, name this capital and largest city of the Czech Republic.
ANSWER: Prague

BONUSES:

1. Answer the following about artists and music that have to do with a certain state, for 10 points each:
[10] Lynyrd Skynyrd released this song in 1974 on their album Second Helping. They sing that "Lord, I'll be coming home to you" in the chorus of this song, which describes the state as "where the skies are blue."
ANSWER: Sweet Home Alabama
[10] This current group, headed by soulful singer Brittany Howard, was formed in Athens, Alabama in 2008. Among their most well-known songs are "Don't Wanna Fight" and "Gimme All Your Love" from their award-winning album Sound and Color.
ANSWER: Alabama Shakes
[10] The poem "Alabama Song," unusually enough a German poem translated into English and set to music, was covered by this artist on his Isobar II - The World Tour. When paired with a stripped-down version of this artist's "Space Oddity" in 1979, the song reached No. 23 on the UK charts.
ANSWER: David Bowie [or David Robert Jones]

2. Answer the following about animals that got famous on the Internet because of their interactions with food, for 10 points each:
[10] In September 2015, this animal was spotted carrying a certain foodstuff down the stairs of a NYC subway station and was likened to Master Splinter bringing food home to feed the Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles.
ANSWER: Pizza Rat [prompt on partial answers]
[10] Just a month after Pizza Rat's rise to fame, a photo was captured of this bird wearing a bagel around its neck in Central Park in what was captioned "the most New York photo ever taken."
ANSWER: Bagel Pigeon
[10] A recently viral video with the title "stupid chicken" is a one-and-a-half minute long video of people hysterically laughing at chickens becoming frightened by and eventually wearing this food commonly fed to ducks at parks.
ANSWER: slices of bread

3. Three scientists received the Nobel Prize in Physics in 1970 for their work in plasma magneto-hydrodynamics and solid state antiferromagnetism. For 10 points each:
[10] Identify this literary device which disrupts the logical flow of dialogue or plot and which is Latin for "it does not follow."
ANSWER: non sequitur
[10] In the comic strip Non Sequitur by Wiley Miller, the pre-adolescent girl Danae [DAH-nay] is often seen with her pet pygmy one of these animals named Lucy, which she first met at a summer camp.
ANSWER: horse [or Clydesdale]
[10] This socialite starred in the television program Filthy Rich: Cattle Drive. She is the eldest of the Kardashian sisters.
ANSWER: Kourtney Kardashian

4. Water, Earth, Fire, Air. Answer the following about the four nations that lived together in harmony until the fire nation attacked, for 10 points each:
[10] Avatar: the Last Airbender featured this main character. When the world needed him most, he vanished.
ANSWER: Aang
[10] One of these events occurred in 99AG between Prince Zuko and Admiral Zhao. Avatar: the Last Airbender featured five of these duels between firebenders, named for the Sanskrit word for fire, and the Japanese word for meeting.
ANSWER: Agni Kai [or Agni Ki Duel]
[10] This cosmological entity passes the Earth every hundred years, and this entity facilitated its titular Fire Lord's invasion. It also names the last four episodes of the book three finale.
ANSWER: Sozin's Comet [or Great Comet]

5. Identify some extremely large geometrical solids around the world, for 10 points each:
[10] A complex of ancient tombs named for these polyhedra were built around 2500 BC in El Giza, one of which became a wonder of the ancient world.
ANSWER: pyramids
[10] This building, the most sacred site in Islam, is a giant cube located in the Sacred Mosque visited by Muslims around the world each year during the hajj pilgrimage
ANSWER: the Kaaba [or al-ka'bah al-musharrafah; prompt on the Cube]
[10] A building named for the Swedish telecommunications company Ericsson is the world's largest building with this shape. It is located in Stockholm and it houses a large ice hockey arena.
ANSWER: globe [or sphere]

6. Answer the following about smartphones recently released, for 10 points each:
[10] Name this phone which failed to unlock through its hyped facial recognition during Apple's keynote. This phone features an A11 bionic chip and an OLED screen.
ANSWER: iPhone X
[10] This phone features the world's smallest 360º personal camera. Surprisingly, according to Android Authority, this phone has only sold 5,000 units so far. Name this phone whose title designates it as a necessary part of one's daily life.
ANSWER: Essential Phone
[10] This phone's previous version was noted for blowing up due to Samsung cramming an oversized battery into the phone. Name this flagship phone released after the S8, which features a notable pen.
ANSWER: Note 8

7. Name these composers based on the movies in which their scores appear, for 10 points each:
[10] This man included a prominent role for the pipe organ in the film Interstellar. He also composed the scores to Pirates of the Caribbean, The Dark Knight, and The DaVinci Code.
ANSWER: Hans Zimmer
[10] This man composed the scores to Aladdin, The Little Mermaid, Beauty and the Beast, and Newsies.
ANSWER: Alan Menken
[10] This man composed the scores to Schindler's List, Jaws, and Star Wars.
ANSWER: John Williams

8. Name these rumors and conspiracies surrounding the United States' 2016 Presidential election, for 10 points each:
[10] This Republican candidate was accused of actually being an unidentified serial killer who killed 37 people during the 1960s and 70s, despite the fact that this man was actually born after most of the murders occurred.
ANSWER: Ted Cruz
[10] Controversies surrounded this July event during the election cycle, which caused Debbie Wasserman Schultz to resign her position. Name this event, which saw 19,000 emails leaked on WikiLeaks, and which was hacked by the Russian government.
ANSWER: Democratic National Convention
[10] In January 2017, the U.S. government issued an intelligence report confirming that this man "ordered an influence campaign in 2016 aimed at the U.S. presidential election." This man is also implicated in a theory that he is not 5 foot 7 inches, but, in fact, between 5 foot 2 inches and 5 foot 5 inches.
ANSWER: Vladimir Putin

9. This film tied All About Eve and Titanic for most Academy Award nominations, with 14. For 10 points each:
[10] This 2016 musical film depicted the story of Sebastian and Mia, an aspiring jazz pianist and actress, who meet and fall in love in Los Angeles.
ANSWER: La La Land
[10] Sebastian and Mia are played by this actor and actress in La La Land. They had previously been an on-screen couple in both Crazy, Stupid, Love and Gangster Squad. Note: both answers required.
ANSWER: Ryan Gosling and Emma Stone
[10] This song from La La Land won an Oscar for Best Original Song by beating out, among others, "Audition (The Fools Who Dream)," another song from the film.
ANSWER: "City of Stars"

10. Answer the following about jazz singer Ella Fitzgerald, for 10 points each:
[10] Fitzgerald made the most of her singing debut at the Apollo Theater in this neighborhood. Known for a certain "Renaissance." this neighborhood was also home to writer Langston Hughes.
ANSWER: Harlem
[10] This artist and Ella Fitzgerald collaborated to perform the incidental music to Gershwin's Porgy and Bess. Nicknamed "Satchmo," this male singer was also known for his scat singing as well as his trumpeting skill.
ANSWER: Louis Armstrong
[10] Ella Fitzgerald's last of 13 Grammys was awarded for her performance of this studio album. Included on this track are singles "Good Morning Heartache," "Dream a Little Dream of Me," and "The Nearness of You."
ANSWER: All That Jazz

11. Answer the following about the date September 30th, for 10 points each:
[10] On September 30th, 1927, this man became the first baseball player in history to hit sixty home runs in a season, doing so in the eighth inning off Tom Zachary to break a 2-2 tie.
ANSWER: George Herman "Babe" Ruth Jr. [prompt on "The Bambino" or "The Sultan of Swat"]
[10] On September 30th, 1947, the World Series was televised for the first time. It saw the Brooklyn Dodgers lose 3-4 to this team featuring Phil Rizzuto and managed by Bucky Harris.
ANSWER: New York Yankees
[10] On September 30th, 1972, this Puerto Rican baseball right fielder made the 3,000th and final hit of his career. He played for the Pittsburgh Pirates and was the first Latin American player to be inducted into the National Baseball Hall of Fame.
ANSWER: Roberto Clemente

12. Answer some questions about Kendrick Lamar's verse on "Control," for 10 points each:
[10] Kendrick calls out numerous rappers in his verse, including this person on whose song he's the feature. This rapper also dated Ariana Grande and was featured on Kanye West's "Mercy."
ANSWER: Big Sean
[10] Kendrick also calls out Drake and this rapper, who famously beefed with Drake about his use of ghostwriters. Drake released "Charged Up" in response to the accusation.
ANSWER: Meek Mill
[10] Kendrick claims to be king of this state on "Control," even though he is from California.
ANSWER: New York

13. Identify the following made-up elements or materials, for 10 points each:
[10] In the film Avatar, this element is prevalent on the world of Pandora, and it acts as a room-temperature semiconductor.
ANSWER: Unobtainium
[10] In the Marvel Universe, this element is naturally found in the country of Wakanda and is the primary material of Captain America's shield.
ANSWER: Vibranium
[10] Harvested in a special ceremony on Ilum, these crystals power both the Jedi lightsabers as well as the laser on the Death Star.
ANSWER: kyber crystals [prompt on partial answer]

14. Drugs are bad, kids, and this video shows exactly why. For 10 points each:
[10] A man exhibits strange behaviors in a dilapidated parking lot while on a "mojo synthetic drug trip" in a video in which the woman filming yells this four-word phrase to call attention to help the man.
ANSWER: "He needs some milk!" [accept "Get him some milk!" even though the video is more known for the first phrase]
[10] The "mojo" in this case is believed to be this drug. Many videos prior have shown milk having a calming effect on those experiencing an adverse reaction to this drug, although its effectiveness is questionable.
ANSWER: phenylcyclidine [or PCP or angel dust]
[10] "He needs some milk!" was highly popularized as a meme by this video-hosting service which was acquired by Twitter in late 2016 but was shut down shortly afterwards in January 2017.
ANSWER: Vine

15. Answer these questions about a certain musical work of art, for 10 points each:
[10] Name this "hip hopera" by R. Kelly about a complex web of affairs. It was first started in 2005 and is split up into many chapters, all of which follow the same melody and theme.
ANSWER: Trapped in the Closet
[10] In Chapter 9 of Trapped in the Closet, a husband finds out his wife had just cheated on him by noticing a missing slice of this food on the counter, even though his wife was allergic to it.
ANSWER: cherry pie
[10] Although the series originally ends with a "To be continued..." at the end of the 22nd chapter, R. Kelly eventually released what he dubbed "The Next Installment" five years later, bringing the entire opera to this many chapters.
ANSWER: 33 [prompt on "too many" and equivalents]

16. Answer the following about a controversial gameplay mechanic, for 10 points each:
[10] Name this method of gameplay in which the player is prompted by on-screen instructions to manipulate the control device to perform an action in-game.
ANSWER: quick time event [prompt on QTE]
[10] Quick time events can be used to increase player interaction in-game during these usually non-interactive gameplay sequences. One of these appears in the original Pac-Man after eating an Energizer power pellet power-up.
ANSWER: cutscenes
[10] An example in which quick time events are shown to be really dumb is in the single player campaign of Call of Duty: Advanced Warfare, in which the player presses F (or X on console) to perform this action for a fallen comrade at a funeral service.
ANSWER: pay respects [answer must be exact]

17.Name these Super Bowl champions based on the player awarded Super Bowl MVP, for 10 points each:
[10] Bart Starr quarterbacked this Wisconsin team to back-to-back Super Bowl wins in 1967-1968, winning MVP each time.
ANSWER: Green Bay Packers (accept either)
[10] Steve Young led this team to a Super Bowl win in 1995.
ANSWER: San Francisco 49ers (accept either)
[10] Safety Dexter Jackson won the MVP award as he helped this team to win the Super Bowl in 2003 over the Oakland Raiders
ANSWER: Tampa Bay Buccaneers

18. Name the following animated movies by Studio Ghibli, for 10 points each:
[10] This movie follows Chihiro's life as she tries to save her parents who were turned into pigs. She was helped by Yubaba's twin sister Zeniba and Haku, the dragon.
ANSWER: Spirited Away
[10] This movie's titular character's name may come from a mispronunciation of the word "troll," and is about the lives of Satsuki and Mei and the titular floofy forest spirit. It also includes a Catbus, Soot Sprites, and Kanda.
ANSWER: My Neighbor Totoro
[10] This movie's title comes from a Paul Valery poem, "The Graveyard by the Sea." It follows Jiro, a designer working on the Mitsubishi Zero in WWII era Japan.
ANSWER: The Wind Rises

19. Sometimes a scream is more than just a scream. Name these movies that use the Wilhelm Scream, for 10 points each:
[10] Luke Skywalker shoots at a stormtrooper across a chasm, causing him to scream as he falls off of the ledge in this episode of the Star Wars franchise.
ANSWER: Star Wars: Episode IV, A New Hope
[10] While defending the Ark of the Covenant, a screaming Nazi soldier falls out the back of a truck onto the hood of a chase car outside of Tunis in this movie.
ANSWER: Raiders of the Lost Ark [prompt on Indiana Jones]
[10] In this movie, when Grigori Rasputin helps the Nazis open a portal to free the Ogdru Jahad, an Allied grenade causes a scientist to fly into the portal, screaming as he is reduced to a skeleton.
ANSWER: Hellboy

20. Answer the following about recent soccer transfers, for 10 points each:
[10] This professional footballer played forward at Dortmund in 2016, but he now plays for FC Barcelona after transferring for 105 million euros, tied for the second highest transfer fee of all-time.
ANSWER: Ousmane Dembélé
[10] Ousmane Dembélé's French teammate recently transferred from Monaco to PSG on a season-long loan. Name this 18-year-old who was included in the 2016-2017 UEFA Champions League Team of the Season.
ANSWER: Kylian Mbappé
[10] Mbappé was rumoured to only want to play for Real Madrid this summer. Among these rumors and frustrated with his playing time, this Spanish player moved from Real Madrid to Chelsea, where he is now their starting center-forward.
ANSWER: Alvaro Morata