2. The name's the same. It was a Canaanite town that became the central sanctuary site of the Israelite confederacy during the period of the judges. The Tabernacle and the Ark of the Covenant were installed there until the Ark was captured by the Philistines. In more modern times, it was the site of a battle also known as Pittsburgh Landing, in which the Confederate Generals Johnston and Beauregard fought against Union troops under General Grant on April 6-7, 1862 in southwestern Tennessee in the second major engagement of the American Civil War. FTP, identify the common name.

ANSWER: SHILOH

3. Nicknamed the "Chicoutimi Cucumber" for his calm demeanor and Quebec birthplace, this goaltender for the Montreal Canadians won two Stanley Cups in fifteen outstanding seasons. His career came to a tragic halt in 1925 when he collapsed during a game because of tuberculosis. He never played again and died from the disease four months later. Name this legendary netminder for whom the NHL's annual outstanding goaltender award is named.

ANSWER: Georges VEZINA

4. This President received the nomination on the 49th ballot and was the first president to fail in his bid for a second nomination. He chose to affirm, rather than swear, his oath of office due to religious considerations, which did not gain him many friends. His endorsement of the Kansas-Nebraska Act and the political firestorm it created was the most influential of his actions during his own time, but perhaps his most lasting legacy lies in southern Arizona and New Mexico, which became part of the U.S. during his term through the Gadsden Purchase. FTP, name this president, the last Democratic president not to have a Republican opponent.

ANSWER: Franklin PIERCE

5. An episodic novel consisting of short stories, it tells the story of the McCaslin family, beginning with the family patriarch Lucius Quintus Carothers McCaslin, and his many descendants, both black and white. It is a noteworthy exploration of race, particularly as it is compounded with miscegenation, and is concerned also with the vanishing wilderness. FTP, name this 1942 work by William Faulkner.

ANSWER: _GO DOWN, MOSES_

6. The father was a leader of the Florentine Camerata, a group of musical and literary amateurs who attacked the theory and practice of vocal counterpoint as exemplified in the Italian madrigal and sought to revive the monodic singing style of ancient Greece. The more famous son did pioneering work on gravitation, first proposed that a pendulum could be applied to regulate clocks, and was an important astronomer. FTP, give the family name of Vincenzo and Galileo.
